this is a selection of studies examining sir thomas malory's morte darthur as literature and history insights into warfare and attitudes to violence and the depredations of war are balanced by considerations of the literary context of the work the idea of studying texts in context has become a new emphasis in literary studies this book explores the idea of contexts and the way they affect texts concentrating upon the writer's context the reader's context the text's context the language context and the meaning context in the 1980s the study of the study of literary theory eclipsed the study of the literary text today we are told we are post theory yet as literary text emerged from the shadow of theory it was eclipsed all over again by the study of context historicist contextualization became the dominant orientation in literary studies and this not quite new historicism spread in turn through period after period literature in contexts seeks to problematize the very notion of context which has remained stubbornly untheorized and unexamined it puts forward a distinction between deep and broad context and argues that we need to counter the prevalence of the latter if literary studies is to avoid becoming a minor branch of history in indian context

this volume represents the current state of septuagint studies as reflected in papers presented at the triennial meeting of the international organization for septuagint and cognate studies ioscs it is rich with contributions from distinguished senior scholars as well as from promising younger scholars whose research testifies to the bright future and diversity of the field the volume is remarkable in terms of the number scholarly interests and geographical distribution of its contributors it is by far the largest congress volume to date more than fifty papers represent viewpoints and scholarship from belgium canada cameroon finland france germany israel korea the netherlands south africa spain the united kingdom and the united states in paul and the restoration of humanity in light of ancient jewish traditions aaron sherwood questions the assumption of universalism in pauline thought demonstrating that relevant pauline traditions depict a particularly israelite restoration of humanity that perhaps plays a generative role in paul's theology mission and apostolic self identity this is the first of four intended volumes only two of which got published devoted to critical analysis of irish writing since the 1950s each was intended to present a collection of essays that taken together should provide a solid foundation for scholars and students interested in the extraordinary achievements of irish writers in the last three decades the essays in this volume map out aspects of the cultural social and political context of contemporary literature and predominant concerns within a given genre the contributors as anthony bradley terence brown gerald dawe john wilson foster tamsin hargreaves claudia harris dillon johnston colbert kearney edna longley arthur e mcguinness christopher murray fintan o toole andrew parkin anthony roche michael toolan and walentina witoszek and patrick f sheeran in this splendid introduction to the elusive rhetorical device central to the new testament picture of jesus charles hedrick explores the nature of the parable and its history of use he asks basic questions such as what is a parable is jesus really the author of the parables and what does a parable mean and then reviews a range of sources from aesop's fables to modern new testament scholarship to answer them he also surveys the various ways the parables have been approached in literary criticism throughout history giving specific examples of each method and delineating their strengths and weaknesses a dynamic reading of the holy spirit in revelation attempts to read the book of revelation in a new way as a narrative embracing literary elements such as plot point of view narrative voice character and story structure to help readers discover its meanings by tracing the story anew lee's unique narrative perspective offers readers a bird's eye view to experience four levels of the story heaven earth abyss and the lake of fire lee develops a theological account of john's pneumatology and surely extends christian pneumatology a doctrine inseparable from the life of the church readers will come away with a greater understanding of the role of the holy spirit which will enable them to enjoy a deeper fellowship with the holy spirit more intimately than ever before lee portrays the book of revelation as a mission oriented book that tells how the kingdom of god will be built in this world through spiritual warfare rather than as a book of eschatology lee s book will serve as a spiritual wake up call to the modern church and the people of god in its accurate portrayal of the holy spirit and vivid description of spiritual warfare
